Two arrested in Simon slaying

2011 stabbing death.

Victim's mother expects charges to be laid Thursday

KRISTEN LIPSCOMBE

kristen.lipscombe@metronews.ca

Still-mourning mother Torina Simon said Wednesday two arrests made in connection with the killing of her 19-year-old daughter, Keya Knita Simon, represent "a step" forward in a tragic case that has dragged on for more than 3-1/2 years.

But after waiting so long to understand what happened the night of Jan. 8, 2011, when the teenage mom died of stab wounds at a party inside a Dartmouth apartment building, Torina won't believe progress is being made until charges are laid.

Police investigators have indicated to Torina that should happen Thursday, she said. "The officer was here this morning ... telling me that they've got the two guys."

Halifax Regional Police announced Wednesday investigators had taken one 25-year-old man into custody in Dartmouth, while officers in New Brunswick had arrested another 25-year-old man.

"We'll see if charges will result," HRP spokesman Const. Pierre Bourdages said, adding police have 24 hours from the time the suspects were arrested to lay charges or release them.

Officers arrived at 117 Pinecrest Dr. at 11:20 p.m. on that long ago winter night to find Simon "unresponsive" inside the front doors.

Torina said the police told her the plans are to charge one man with Keya's murder, and the other for the attempted murder of the victim's half-sister, 32-year-old Tiesha Allison, who was stabbed but suffered non-life threatening injuries.

Police say the two sisters knew a group that had started an altercation at the party. Investigators were interviewing the two men, both from Dartmouth, Wednesday afternoon.

Bourdages couldn't say what led to the arrests, but admitted, "in most of these cases ... we have an individual that has information, that for some reason does not share it with police, so it takes ... time."

Torina said "it's about time" arrests have been made in the case, which is part of the province's unsolved crimes program, but added "there are still a whole lot more questions that need to be asked and answered."

Charges 'appropriate' for gun scare case, police say

Jason Keith Gillespie.
Man charged in Linear Trail incident appears in court

HALEY RYAN
haley.ryan@metronews.ca

Halifax police say charges of mischief and possessing weapons dangerous to the public are appropriate for a 35-year-old man who reportedly walked through a local trail wearing camouflage and carrying airsoft weapons, given "everything the public and police went through."

Jason Keith Gillespie of Halifax appeared in court Wednesday to face charges stemming from a gun scare

Quoted

"We don't believe he had the intention of scaring people, but he did just that."

Const. Pierre Bourdages

on the Linear Trail in Clayton Park that led to a large police presence Tuesday.

"The individual was carrying these guns that ... even police believed were real," police spokesman Const. Pierre Bourdages said.

Bourdages said the mischief charge comes from the fact Gillespie prevented people from enjoying a piece of municipal property when they could have done so.

The charge of having a weapon dangerous to public peace applies to imitation weapons, Bourdages said, and is warranted given the "gravity" of the incident.

"These two charges are appropriate given the circumstances, and everything that the public and police went through," he said.

Police say Gillespie had three airsoft weapons: a long gun, an assault rifle and a pistol. Bourdages said they believe he was going to use the weapons for target practice at a nearby park, which is against HRM bylaws.

Gillespie arrived at the courthouse around 10 a.m. Wednesday and appeared before a judge in the early afternoon. He has been released on conditions and is due back in court on Oct. 23.

Police responded to We-stride Drive in Clayton Park after 9:30 a.m. Tuesday after two people reported seeing a man in fatigues walking along the path with a long gun on his back.

A man turned himself in to police an hour later, and no threats were made or shots fired. He was arrested and remained in custody all day Tuesday and overnight, before his court appearance Wednesday.

Airsoft gun 'not really a weapon': Local marksman

Three airsoft guns that police say are similar to those that were in possession of the accused. CONTRIBUTED

The president of the Atlantic Marksmen Association said it wasn't a good idea for 35-year-old Jason Gillespie to walk through a trail in Clayton Park with airsoft guns, but is questioning the charge of possessing weapons dangerous to the public.

Police have said Gillespie was on his way to practise marksmanship in a local park when he was spotted and officers responded to the area, but Sean Hansen said on Wednesday those who use firearms for shooting know how to do so at a range or out hunting.

"I don't know what kind of marksmen shooting you'd get out of a little plastic pellet," Hansen said Wednesday.

Gillespie appeared in court to face charges of mischief and possessing weapons dangerous to public peace.

Police have circulated photos of air guns similar to the ones Gillespie was using, but Hansen said he would like to see the exact ones he had because some of the ones demonstrated are illegal, and not related to what Gillespie was carrying.

Hansen also said the charge of possessing a dangerous weapon is not appropriate because air guns can be bought in many stores around Halifax.

"I don't think the weapons charge is actually going to stick ... (it's) not really a weapon," he said. HALEY RYAN/METRO

Cutting trees not only post-storm answer: Younger

Storm aftermath.

Energy minister responds to utility's reasoning on Arthur

Nova Scotia's energy minister is expressing skepticism with a key part of Nova Scotia Power's response on its restoration efforts following post-tropical storm Arthur, saying the company's position that more trees need to be trimmed to prevent power lines from coming down is simplistic.

"I'm a little bit disappointed that Nova Scotia Power has seen this as, 'Cut the trees and make sure the lines don't come down in the wind, or accept the lines will come down and don't cut the trees,'" Andrew Younger said in an interview Wednesday.

Younger was responding a day after the utility company filed a report with the province's Public Utility and Review Board on its efforts to restore power in the days after the July 5 storm.

In the report, Nova Scotia Power said too many roadside trees in communities were partly to blame for delays in getting the power back on.

Energy Minister Andrew Younger

The report said the problem was particularly acute in the Annapolis Valley, where the majority of outages occurred, but it also pointed to Halifax, where it said trees continue to be planted directly under or very near power lines.

But Younger, who spent several years on Halifax regional council before becoming a provincial politician, said the city has been a good example because it has planted certain types of trees that grow better around power lines.

"It's a big issue, but I think Nova Scotia Power has to be open to a lot more variety in terms of the solutions," said Younger.

He said Nova Scotia Power, to its credit, has also buried power lines in some areas.

A city planner in Halifax said while opinions differ between the municipality and Nova Scotia Power on issues such as how to gain more clearance for power lines, there has been co-operation between the two sides.

John Charles, project manager for the city's urban forest master plan, said Nova Scotia Power assisted the city last winter in identifying areas of concern during pruning and also helped with inspection work.

"There were deficiencies in that they felt we could have gained more line clearance, but overall I think they were satisfied with this collaborative work," Charles said.

He also said a plan was adopted in 2012 to prune trees at seven-year intervals, a time frame implemented in many North American cities.

Province to scrap My-Play program

VLT tracking. Program failed to reduce excessive gambling, province says

A program launched in Nova Scotia two years ago to reduce excessive gambling will be scrapped because it has failed to meet that objective and is wasting money, the provincial government said Wednesday.

The My-Play system will be disabled for VLTs starting next month, said Andrew Younger, minister responsible for Part I of the Gaming Control Act.

Younger said the system was a reasonable attempt to improve responsible gambling features on VLTs but evidence indicated it did not reduce play by problem gamblers.

About $19.5 million has been spent on the program since its introduction in April 2012, about $13 million of which were capital costs.

The system costs about $4.5 million a year to operate and the province was also faced with having to spend $1 million to upgrade it, Younger said.

Under the My-Play system, people insert cards into VLTs in order to set voluntary spending and time limits as well as to stop play immediately.

While the system was mandatory for all VLTs in the province, it came under attack from critics who said it was weak because the restrictions weren't mandatory. But the province's opposition parties said the government's decision to eliminate the system amounts to a thinly veiled attempt to increase gambling income.

"I haven't seen the evidence that the government has been calling that this program isn't working," said NDP health critic Dave Wilson, the minister responsible for introducing it.

Younger said many gamblers were using more than one card in a single session.

Police in Halifax are looking for a local cabbie who allegedly grabbed a woman's buttocks as she got out of the man's cab.

The victim, a 39-year-old, told police she hailed a cab on Lower Water Street in the area of Historic Properties. She was driven to Parkland Drive with a

The driver is described as a white man in his 30s with blonde hair, round face and a medium build. Police say he also spoke English with an East European accent. METRO

A film palette for 'all tastes and pleasures'

Atlantic Film Festival.
September lineup
includes Elephant Song,
Maps to the Stars

STEPHANIE
TAYLOR

halifax@metronews.ca

It's what Halifax movie buffs have been waiting for.

The lineup for the 34th annual Atlantic Film Festival was unveiled Wednesday after much anticipation from organizers.

"You're going to find something at the festival for all tastes and pleasures," said AFF program director Jason Beaudry.

Audiences can choose from a selection of more than 190 films, including shorts, documentaries, francophone and feature films from Atlantic Canada and around the world.

The festival runs Sept. 11 to 18.

Organizers see the festival as more than just a chance to take in some great movies. They believe it is a celebration of films, in particular of those close to home.

"We really wanted to have a greater spotlight on Canadian cinema," Beaudry said.

One of this year's most anticipated films is Elephant Song, directed by Montreal's Charles Biname, which will premiere at the festival's red carpet gala opening night at the Dalhousie Art Centre's Rebecca Cohn Auditorium.

The film, set in the 1960s, ver screen such a lasting experience.

Director David Cronenberg will close the festival with his latest drama, Maps to the Stars, with an all-star cast including Julianne Moore, Robert Pattinson and Carrie Fisher.

But Beaudry encourages audiences to take their pick from a number of the festival's unconventional flicks that they won't see everyday at the movies.

A 3D film by legendary French director Jean-Luc Godard and a restored version of the 1974 Texas Chainsaw Massacre are just a few of the out-of-the-ordinary cinema people can enjoy.

"We've been excited about this for quite some time," Beaudry said. "It's been hard to keep it secret."

Compared to previous years, he believes this year's lineup offers a more diverse blend of film that is "accessible to every festival audience."

And the festivities off-screen will be as equally spectacular, organizers said Wednesday.

There will be performances from homegrown talent Ben Caplan and Jenn Grant, as well as a number of panel discussions and lectures from leaders in the Atlantic Canadian and international film industry.

Wanted: 'Diversity'

Arts festival to celebrate work from aboriginals

Music, dance, theatre — you name it.

These are only a few of the performances visitors can take in this week at the Prismatic Arts Festival, which opens Thursday and runs through Sunday at Alderney Landing Theatre in Dartmouth.

"It's important for a vibrant community to have access to a diversity of arts," said organizer Maggie Stewart.

The four-day event is the only festival in Canada specifically dedicated to celebrating the work of aboriginal and culturally diverse artists.

Compared to white, Canadian-born artists, Stewart believes that indigenous and immigrant artists are underexposed in mainstream arts communities.

The festival is their chance to reach a wider audience they otherwise wouldn't, she said.

Stewart also believes that by showing diversity in the arts, it will help foster a greater sense of cultural pride among immigrant and indigenous youth.

More than 100 artists from coast to coast will take part in the festivities at Alderney Landing.

Stewart said while "most of the other festivals (in Halifax) focus on one specific kind of art," such as theatre or music, this event is multi-disciplinary and offers visitors a range of entertainment. "We wanted a festival that didn't have any limitations," she said.

‘It was sheer panic’

Not-so-wonderful playground. Cash, debit cards, camera gear stolen from Minnesota family at Peggy’s Cove

haley.ryan@metronews.ca

For the past year, Lori Schumacker had looked forward to visiting Peggy’s Cove with her children and seeing the ocean for the first time in her life.

But after a swim in Cranberry Cove near the popular lighthouse Tuesday around 5 p.m., Schumacker realized two purses and a camera bag were missing from the van she had driven about 3,000 kilometres from Minnesota.

“We were trying to find

A rotten exception

“You can’t fault the country and the rest of the people for some stupid person.”

Lori Schumacker

the wallet to go into (a) store,” Schumacker said about the moment she realized the purses were gone.

“It was sheer panic,” she said, wiping away tears.

Schumacker said the van was locked during their time at the cove, and she didn’t see any signs of forced entry.

Passports, debit cards, IDs and more than $200 in cash were in the purses while a digital camera and lenses for their larger high-quality camera were also taken, Schumacker said, but an iPad and phones were left.

Her daughter Destiny’s purse was hidden under a dog bed and blankets, Schumacker said as she shook her head and the family’s three rescue puppies ran around her feet.

“It’s been (going) really well up until (Tuesday) night,” Destiny said Wednesday, adding she was “disappointed” about the theft.

Schumacker, a single mom, said she planned this trip for a year to visit friends, spend time with her kids Logan and Destiny, and have a break from her volunteer ambulance service work.

“Peggy’s Cove, the Bay of Fundy, all of that stuff is different from what we’re used to because we’re locked in the middle of Canada and the United States,” Schumacker said.

On Wednesday afternoon, police turned over one of the purses to Schumacker after someone picked it up at Peggy’s Cove.

The debit cards (which Schumacker had cancelled right away), passports and about $70 were there, which she said will allow them to eat for the next few days while they wait for a replacement card.

The family arrived Sunday, and Schumacker said her U.S. bank hopes to get a new debit card to them by Monday so they are planning to “make the best” of their time here.

“We might as well finish the vacation and figure out how to get home,” she said.

Schumacker said she hopes anyone who saw something suspicious in the area around 4 to 7 p.m. Tuesday goes to police, or turns in the other missing purse and black camera backpack to Room 110 at the Wedgewood Motel.

Ferguson. U.S. attorney general tells residents he understands the mistrust

U.S. Attorney General Eric Holder sought Wednesday to reassure the people of Ferguson, Mo., about the investigation into the shooting death of a black 18-year-old by a white police officer and said he understands why many black Americans do not trust police, recalling how he was repeatedly stopped by officers who seemed to target him because of his race.

Holder made the remarks during a visit to the St. Louis suburb that has been wracked by more than a week of unrest since the Aug. 9 shooting of Michael Brown. The Obama administration intended the trip to underscore its commitment to civil rights in general and the Ferguson case in particular.

The attorney general remembered how he was stopped twice on a New Jersey highway and accused of speeding. Police searched his car, going through the trunk and looking under the seats.

"I remember how humiliating that was and how angry I was and the impact it had on me," Holder said during a private meeting with about 50 community leaders at the Florissant campus of St. Louis Community College.

Holder also met with federal officials investigating Brown's death and with Brown's parents.

While living in the Georgetown neighbourhood of Washington, Holder was once running to catch a movie with his cousin when a squad car rolled up and flashed its lights at the pair. The officer yelled, "Where are you going? Hold it!" Holder recalled.

His cousin "started mouthing off," and Holder urged him to be quiet.

"We negotiate the whole thing, and we walk to our movie. At the time that he stopped me, I was a federal prosecutor. I wasn't a kid," he said.

Road Closure: Highway #102 at Joseph Howe Dr. Intersection

Dexter Construction, on behalf of Halifax Water, is undertaking construction activity along the BLT and Chain of Lakes trails related to the Lakeside Pump Station Diversion Project.

The project involves the installation of approximately 8.5 km of new sewer pipe from Raines Mill Road to the area of the Atlantic Superstore on Joseph Howe Drive.

Part of this work will require the closure of the Highway#102 On/Off ramps at the intersection of Joseph Howe Drive to allow for reinstatement of the concrete road surface in the intersection following the recent pipe installation work. This closure will be in effect from 9PM Friday, August 22 until 5AM Monday, August 25. During this closure, there will be no vehicle access inbound or outbound to Highway#102 at the intersection. Joseph Howe Drive will remain open.

Halifax Water regrets any inconvenience this temporary road closure may cause.

Hiroshima slide kills dozens

In this aerial photo, rescue workers are seen on the mud-covered ground as they search for survivors after a massive landslide swept through residential areas in Hiroshima, western Japan, on Wednesday. Rain-sodden slopes collapsed in torrents of mud, rock and debris early Wednesday in the outskirts of the city, killing at least 36 people, police said. KYODO NEWS/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israel sought to assassinate Hamas chief, militants say

Airstrike kills wife, son.

Israeli PM Benjamin Netanyahu won't back down in face of failed ceasefire talks

Hamas' military chief escaped an apparent Israeli assassination attempt that killed his wife and infant son, the militant group said Wednesday, as Israel's prime minister warned that the bombardment of Gaza will continue until rocket fire out of the Palestinian territory stops.

The airstrike on a home where Mohammed Deif's family members were staying — and the tough talk from Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu — came after the collapse of ceasefire talks in Cairo on Tuesday.

In a nationally televised address, Netanyahu showed little willingness to return to the negotiating table.

Palestinian militants launched dozens of rockets into Israel, while Israel carried out numerous airstrikes. One airstrike on a Gaza City house killed Deif's seven-month-old son and one of his wives.

More than 2,000 Palestinians have been killed in the fighting, most of them civilians, according to UN and Palestinian medical officials. Sixty-seven people have died on the Israeli side, all but three of them soldiers. A six-day temporary truce collapsed into heavy fighting after Egyptian-mediated talks broke down without an agreement on an extended ceasefire. Hamas has demanded an end to an Israeli-Egyptian blockade of Gaza. Israel has demanded that Hamas disarm.

Since the truce collapsed, at least 22 Palestinians have been killed and more than 120 wounded, Gaza Health Ministry official Ashraf al-Kidra said.

50,000 people sealed inside slum to contain Ebola

Riot police and soldiers acting on their president's orders used scrap wood and barbed wire to seal off 50,000 people inside a Liberian slum Wednesday, trying to contain the Ebola outbreak that has killed at least 1,350 people across

West Africa.

Hundreds of slum residents clashed with the gunmen, furious at being blamed and isolated by a government that has failed to quickly collect dead bodies from the streets.

The World Health Organization said the death toll is rising most quickly in Liberia, which now accounts for at least 576 of the fatalities. At least 2,473 people have been sickened across West Africa.

Negotiators strive to end standoff

Negotiators worked late into the night in an effort to persuade two men barricaded in a home in the southern Chicago suburb of Harvey to end their standoff with police and release the last of six children and two adults they took hostage.

Four of the children had been released after hours of talks between the suspects and hostage negotiators.

Authorities say the two men took the captives after police responded to a call of a burglary in progress at a home Tuesday afternoon. There was an exchange of gunfire that left two officers wounded.

A Harvey spokesman said that after the shooting, the two suspects ran into a nearby home where they barricaded themselves.

Minks hijinks. Animals freed from Quebec farm at heart of possible abuse

As many as a few thousand minks could be on the loose in Quebec after someone broke into a fur farm and released animals.

The farm is at the heart of allegations of animal mistreatment.

Provincial police say they are investigating after the overnight release of the minks.

Spokeswoman Joyce Kemp says the owner noticed Wednesday that the minks had been released from their pens.

A spokesman for the Forests, Wildlife and Parks Department says the exact number of minks on the lam is unclear, but that there could be a few thousand.

Animal advocates like the Montreal SPCA and Humane International Canada had called on the government last week to seize the animals because of their poor health and substandard living conditions.

The province chose to keep the animals under close supervision at the facility and work with the owner.

Minister Baird's tweets not bilingual enough?

Probe. Official language watchdog investigates after complaints MP posts too much in English

Canada's language watchdog is investigating Foreign Affairs Minister John Baird's Twitter account following a complaint the Conservative MP posts most of his messages in English without enough French.

The probe by official languages commissioner Graham Fraser has puzzled officials in Baird's office and department.

"We are surprised that the official languages commissioner has chosen to investigate the minister's personal Twitter account that falls outside of the scope of the act," said Baird's spokesman, Rick

Official Languages Act

The Official Languages Act, adopted in 1969, requires the federal government to protect services in both English and French and promote the vitality of minority communities in both languages across the country.

Roth. "The minister's personal Twitter account is just that, his personal account. That said, he tweets from that account in both of Canada's official languages."

Baird, who represents an Ottawa riding in Parliament, uses his Twitter account regularly to inform Canadians with a mix of messages about government business and personal observations.

For example, this week he tweeted in both English and French about the conflict between Israel and Hamas. In recent weeks, some of his tweets have included English-only messages about the death of actor Robin Williams and his return home from a trip, to a cup of Tim Hortons coffee.

Fraser told Baird's department in a July 31 letter that it was looking into the Twitter account to determine whether the government was respecting the "spirit" of federal language legislation.

Obama vows U.S. 'will be relentless'

Killing of American journalist. President's remarks affirm U.S. will not stop attacks on Islamic State militants

The United States stood firm Wednesday in its fight against Islamic State militants who beheaded a U.S. journalist in Iraq, pledging to continue attacking the group despite its threats to kill another American hostage.

The U.S. military continued its airstrikes against the group as U.S. President Barack Obama denounced the group as a "cancer" threatening the entire region.

"We will be vigilant and we will be relentless," he said.

Calling for a global response to the group that now controls territory in both Iraq and Syria, Obama condemned the group's execution of journalist James Foley, whose death he said had left America heartbroken. In forceful remarks, Obama accused the Islamic State of torturing, raping and murdering thousands of people in "cowardly acts of violence."

"ISIL speaks for no religion," Obama said, using an alternative name for the Islamic State.

"Their victims are overwhelmingly Muslim, and no faith teaches people to massacre innocents. Not just god would stand for what they did yesterday and what they do every single day."

Since a video of Foley's beheading was released Tuesday, the U.S. military has pressed ahead by conducting nearly a dozen airstrikes on Islamic State targets in Iraq.

The beheading marks the first time the Islamic State has killed an American citizen since the Syrian conflict broke out in March 2011.

Must love dogs

Is a dog eating your meal a deal-breaker?

Then this new breed of online dating site may not be for you

On these dating sites, a passion for pets will help you find more than just puppy love.

Sites like PetsDating.com and YouMustLoveDogsDating.com have found a new niche as singles flock to computers and smartphones to find relationships, connecting dog owners to potential mates who enjoy long walks in the dog park and slobbery canine kisses as much as they do.

Many dating sites cater to religious, cultural and political preferences but won't focus as heavily on interests like pets, music or travel, said Karen North, a professor of social media at the University of Southern California's Annenberg School of Journalism.

When Joanie Pelzer signed up with a dog-friendly online dating service a few years ago, she was honest about her Chihuahua — he likes people more than other dogs, craves attention, steals food and can't stand to ride in the backseat of a car.

Even a man who loved animals as much as she did couldn't keep up with her dog's quirks. On their first date, her Chihuahua, Hubbell, stole the man's breakfast as they drove from New York City to Long Island. They only had one more date.

"I still wonder if Hubbell didn't have something to do with that," said Pelzer, 47, an actress and entrepreneur, who met the man on PetsDating.com.

Missed target in Canada

Target 'bit off way too much, too early': CFO

If Target Corp. could re-do its launch into Canada, it would start with just a handful of stores, instead of the more than 100 it opened last year despite their lukewarm reception, the retailer said Wednesday.

However, Target chief financial officer John Mulligan said the retailer is not changing its plan to have 133 stores in Canada by the end of this year and 150 stores by 2017.

"We bit off way too much, too early," Mulligan said during a conference call with Canadian reporters. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Latest to ban practice

New Zealand bans shark finning

New Zealand announced it will ban the practice of shark finning, a move the Pew Charitable Trusts said is welcome and will bring the country in line with other developed nations.

New Zealand's Conservation Minister Nick Smith said the move will reinforce the country's reputation for sustainability and environmental protection.

The new rules, effective October, will make it illegal to remove fins from dead sharks and dump the carcasses at sea.

Bumper cars on a ship? Cruise companies set sail for new market in China

Royal Caribbean's newest ship has attractions not usually seen on cruise liners, including bumper cars, a sky-diving simulator and a glass observation capsule on a mechanical arm that lifts its passengers high into the air.

Also a surprise is the vessel's intended home port: Shanghai.

After floating out of a German shipyard last week, the $935 million US Quantum of the Seas will spend the winter running between New York and the Caribbean before moving to its new base next summer in mainland China's financial centre.

It's a gutsy move for the world's second-biggest cruise company. Cruise operators have traditionally sent older vessels to developing countries while saving their most advanced ships for U.S. and European customers. But surging growth in China means it's a market operators can no longer ignore.

DR. MAZEROLLE'S GUIDE TO HEALTHY LIVING

My doctor wants to undergo a check-up soon, the sort where he treats me like a used car: inspecting the chassis, taking a peek inside and deciding that the motor is not what it used to be.

But I'm not complaining; I need my tires kicked from time to time. Like a car, I'm not a self-starter. I don't clean my apartment unless I know someone's coming over (so, never), and I don't start flossing until I can hear the dentist's footsteps in the next room.

I need to know somebody is going to check up on me or it all goes to hell. So I'm thankful my doctor periodically tells me the various ways I've ruined my life and the excruciating ways I can fix it. Otherwise, it would be worse.

Entering middle age might mean my body is failing, but — lucky you! — my brain is functioning at a youthful level of smugness that allows me to decide how you should live your life.

HE SAYS
John Mazerolle
metronews.ca

Follow these tips for healthy living and you'll leave your check-up with a shiny new inspection sticker from the DMV (Department of Metaphors Vexatious). Vroom vroom.

Highway to Health:
Dr. Mazerolle's guide to healthy living:

Love yourself. Nobody else will do it for you, because you're sort of irritating.

Keep hydrated. Did you know we are 60 per cent water? Try to limit urination, bowel movements, perspiration and breathing to keep all that precious water inside.

Get enough sleep. Notice how much energy teenagers have? It's because they sleep a minimum of 20 hours a day, plus naps. Follow suit and you'll have teen angst, flashes of anger and unwanted sexual feelings just like the good old days.

Meditate. Sitting uncomfortably in one spot, doing nothing and trying to stop even thinking might seem like a colossal waste of time — but not if you meditate about it, apparently.

Exercise. Research has shown that the best, most natural rhythm for exercise is a whole bunch of gym visits in January, then a couple in February, then nothing until early summer when you jog outside a couple of times.

Don't binge-watch. Instead, watch small TV shows throughout the day. Stop whenever you feel emotionally satisfied.

Lose weight. Drop your partner and that's 150 pounds right there, am I right? No, seriously, if you break up with your husband or wife you will lose 30 pounds. Ask your doctor if divorce is right for you.

Whatever Dr. Oz says. Kale and magnets together, probably. Go for it. He's a doctor.

Drought continues to wreak havoc

A wildfire that scared a community near Yosemite National Park has been tamed by firefighters after some early surges, and some of the more than 1,000 people who fled from their homes have returned.

"We're not seeing the fire expand like we thought," Madera County Sheriff John Anderson said Tuesday after crews had the fire 35 per cent contained.

The fire comes amid California's third straight year of drought, creating tinder-dry conditions that have significantly increased the fire danger around the state and sent firefighters scrambling seemingly non-stop from blaze to blaze.

It's difficult to be too hard on the Ice Bucket Challenge because it's been a fundraising bonanza for ALS, even if the connection is accidental. But now that sports execs and former U.S. presidents are jumping on board, a lot of us are ready for the whole thing to pass. But first, let's wrap up the trend with a collection of frigid foibles and ice bucket calamities endured by less-successful contestants. It's a nice palate-cleanser to get us ready for the next — and hopefully just as successful — charitable shenanigans. Note: there's one instance of some salty language here. ## Getting his life back in focus after bike crash ends dream

Death on display.

Once a popular musician, Paul Vienneau has turned to his other creative passion: photography

PASS

Jenna Conter
halifax@metronews.ca

Paul Vienneau moved from Halifax to Toronto in 1989 to pursue his dreams of becoming a professional musician.

Involved in a few bands and taking on an independent music project with his brother, Vienneau was making a name for himself in the popular music scene that encompassed such Queen Street hotspots as The Horseshoe Tavern.

Vienneau played and practised hard, so he cycled for comfort and convenience. He and his brother often commuted along the trails and city streets.

But in August 1991, fate struck.

"I was cycling with my brother, heading home after seeing a soul band at The Pilot at Yonge and Bloor, and I was cut off by a tractor-trailer," recalls Vienneau.

He clung to life in the back of the ambulance.

"I had a handful of life left. I told my brother that I loved him — came to in the ambulance — it was like a switch. They had to resuscitate me three times in the ambulance, and that's when things started to hurt and I was getting scared."

Paul Vienneau says his photography has been therapeutic as he rebuilds his life following a near-fatal cycling accident in 1991. CONTRIBUTED

Two years in the hospital followed, including a month in a coma. Vienneau needed a total of 40 surgeries for injuries that included a snapped pelvis, a fractured coccyx and internal injuries.

Since life in a wheelchair didn't seem conducive to becoming a rock star, Vienneau eventually let go and stepped away from his dream.

"I took this chance to redefine myself," he says. "And once I let that go, it really loosened some slack. All of a sudden, I didn't feel like a failure."

In 2010, Vienneau turned his attention to his other passion: photography.

"Calling myself a photographer is still something that is a work in progress," he says. "It's been a journey of how to tell stories with light, but to make a meaningful picture of a subject is what it's all about."

Vienneau says his current show, Death has no Parenthesis, is therapeutic, both in its cathartic effect and creative release.

"It certainly feels like the next chapter in my life. It feels good. It feels like I'm pushing negative things behind me and moving on to new and exciting things."

Frank Miller traces his unlikely success

Sin City 2. Series creator tells Metro how he kept drawing despite the doubters who didn't believe in his style of crime comics

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

Frank Miller's comics career is a long and storied one, with Sin City being one of his most individual creations. Here, in his own words, is his journey toward creating the series — and its unlikely jump to the silver screen:

"I grew up on Superboy comics, and then Spider-Man and that sort of thing, and after a while they started to seem kind of juvenile to me and I lost interest. But I kept drawing.

"Meanwhile, what I was reading were things like Mickey Spillane and Raymond Chandler. So the two loves merged into doing crime comics, which I thought was just an absolute natural and would go over big.

"I moved to New York, was told to go back home. 'We don't need you. Go pump gas. You're from Vermont. We've got news for you: You're not drawing guys in tights.' So I had to learn how to draw guys in tights, and I put them into as many crime situations as I could. And then after working in comics and gaining some notoriety and then working in Hollywood, I sat down and decided I would just please myself, and I would do the one comic book that could not possibly be turned into a movie.

"And it ended up being Sin City. Then (Robert Rodriguez) shows up."

All about Alba

Of all the intense characters in the Sin City universe, vengeful stripper Nancy, played in both films by Jessica Alba, might be his favourite — thanks in large part to Alba's performance. He's found it so inspiring, in fact, that he's eager to get to work on a third film. "The original working title for Jessica's story was Nancy's Last Dance, because she had been the abused victim, she had been through the wringer, and she had ended up as many women in her situation do, which is an exotic dancer," Miller says. "This time, she turns into something else. And I've already got her next chapter planned, so please show up for the second movie."

The Jungle Book. Benedict Cumberbatch to voice Shere Khan

The Andy Serkis adaptation of The Jungle Book, due from Warner Bros in 2016, will have Sherlock star Benedict Cumberbatch as its prowling tiger, Shere Khan.

As a cast member on Star Trek Into Darkness and The Hobbit: The Desolation of Smaug, Cumberbatch is no stranger to generously budgeted blockbuster filmmaking, and Jungle Book: Origins will see him team up with The Hobbit second unit director Andy Serkis once again.

For Serkis, Jungle Book: Origins will mark his first full directorial debut, making good use of his experience with motion capture and computer-generated imagery, with a release date of Oct. 21, 2016.

In contrast, Disney's version of the Rudyard Kipling classic, named The Jungle Book and due Oct. 9, 2015, has The Wire and Pacific Rim icon Idris Elba. Mowgli, played by newcomer Neel Sethi, is surrounded by the likes of Bill Murray as Baloo, Scarlett Johansson as Kaa, Lupita Nyong'o as Rakcha and Christopher Walken as King Louie.

Nobody likes to read bad news about professional nice guy Tom Hanks, but thankfully this has a happy ending.

According to Life & Style, Hanks and wife Rita Wilson hit a rough patch in their 26-year marriage, spending a month quietly separated. "They were leading separate

Friends fear poor Barton is broke and bummed out

People are really, really worried about Mischa Barton. Again.

The former O.C. star is reportedly in deep financial trouble and can't seem to get her career restarted. Given her past emotional troubles, her friends and family are fearing a relapse, according to Star magazine.

"Mischa's loved ones are concerned for her health and safety," a source says.

"It's extremely heart-breaking. She's broke and ashamed — and I'm afraid that she may try to numb the pain ... Even though she's basically broke, whiskey is cheap and she can use what's left of her money."

Star claims that Barton is more than $100,000 in debt and her $6.4 million Beverly Hills mansion is in foreclosure.

Poor Mischa Barton. It seems like the only way her name gets in the news anymore is when friends are worried about her. If these "friends" cared so much about her, maybe they could spend their time, I don't know, taking her out for a nice dinner or a spa day instead of just griping to the nearest tabloid.

Calvin Harris

Spinning his turntables into buckets of gold

How much can you make standing behind a laptop and some turntables in a Las Vegas nightclub? Much more than you'd think, apparently, as Calvin Harris knows well.

Harris was named the highest-paid DJ in the world for the second year in a row by Forbes magazine. His take-home pay for the past 12 months? Oh, only $66 million US. "The rise of dance music has been astronomical in the last three years. I happened to be in the right place at the right time," Harris tells the magazine, trying to downplay his success.

Rival DJ David Guetta came in second with a paltry $30 million.

Perfumes for peace.

Barb Stegemann's scents are infused with a story and a sense of purpose

life@metronews.ca

Barb Stegemann was on a trip to Haiti meeting suppliers for her successful perfume company The 7 Virtues when she was introduced to a Rwandan bracelet maker.

The woman told her the bracelets symbolized empowerment for HIV widows who had survived genocide in Rwanda, and with the purchase of that one bracelet, plus an invitation by the Rwanda High Commission to visit the country; the Canadian perfumer was inspired to create her next signature scent — Patchouli of Rwanda.

"Within six months I was holding the woman's hand who made my bracelet and living a dream come true, trekking into the hills of Rwanda to meet our patchouli farmers and being a part of the solution," Stegemann recalls.

The Rwandan patchouli farmers the Canadian company employs are adult orphans and widows of genocide, and through her partnership and investments, Stegemann's hope is the farmers can live with dignity and rebuild in their war-torn communities.

The company has also sourced essential oils for perfumes from countries like Afghanistan, Haiti and the Middle East, investing more than $120,000 into those regions through purchases of oil.

beauty writers in designing her latest unisex fragrance.

"I wanted this scent to symbolize that carefree peace and love," she said.

To create the new scent, the natural patchouli oil is blended with hints of cedar flower, freesia, red grapefruit and hibiscus, creating a refreshing Canadian-produced vegan and paraben-free perfume.

Patchouli of Rwanda is the fifth fragrance from The 7 Virtues, a startup launched by Stegemann in 2010 in Nova Scotia. She went on to pitch successfully to CBC's Dragon's Den, securing $75,000 investment from entrepreneur W. Brett Wilson and was named the show's Top Game Changer for Season 5.

Today, the company has offices in Toronto and London, U.K. and the company's line of Canadian-made fragrances are available at The Bay in Canada and in high-end department stores such as Lord & Taylor in New York City, Selfridges in London, and Galeries Lafayette in Berlin.

Cookbook of the Week

Take the cooking out of dinner

Going raw may seem intimidating, but Rawlicious at Home by Angus Crawford and Chelsea Clark makes it simple with its easy-to-follow directions, beautiful imagery and informative sections that explain the tools and methods you will use.

The book boasts more than 100 raw recipes that are also gluten-free and vegan. Among the dishes are Corn Chowder, Don't Be Chicken Salad Sandwich, Lasagna, Spring Rolls, Mexican Pizza, Carrot Cake Bites and more.

Ingredients

Cashew Cheese

- 2/3 cup cashews, soaked
- 1 1/2 tsp fresh lemon juice
- 1/2 clove garlic, chopped
- 1 1/2 tsp nutritional yeast
- 1/2 tsp sea salt
- Pinch ground black pepper
- 1/4 cup filtered water

Basil Sauce

- 1/4 cup extra virgin olive oil
- 2 tbsp filtered water
- 2 tbsp pumpkin seeds, soaked

- 1/2 cup fresh basil
- 1 tsp fresh lemon juice
- 1/2 clove garlic
- 1/4 tsp ground black pepper
- Pinch sea salt

Beet Ravioli

- 6 large beets, peeled
- 4 tbsp extra virgin olive oil
- 2 tbsp fresh lemon juice
- 2/3 cup Cashew Cheese
- 3 sprigs dill, chopped
- 1/2 cup Basil Sauce

"The beautiful deep ruby red of the beets in this dish is accentuated by the creamy white of the Cashew Cheese and topped off with the green of the Basil Sauce," write Angus Crawford and Chelsea Clark in Rawlicious at Home.

The book recommends soaking the nuts used in the Cashew Cheese and Basil Sauce in about three inches of water, uncovered at room temperature. Cashews should be soaked for four hours and pumpkin seeds for six.

Cashew Cheese

1. Place everything, except the water, in a food processor and process until combined.

2. Add the water and process until smooth.

Basil Sauce

1. Blend all ingredients in a blender until smooth.

Beet Ravioli

1. Use a mandoline to thinly slice the beets. You will have some extra slices that are irregular or not complete. Select the best ones and match up in pairs for the top and bottom of each ravioli.

2. Combine the olive oil and lemon juice in a bowl, and add the beet slices. Marinate the beets for 30 minutes to soften.

3. Mix the cashew cheese with the dill.

4. Remove the beet slices from the marinade and lie flat on a cutting board. Drop 1 tsp cashew cheese in the center of half the slices.

5. Lay the remaining beet slices on top of them. Use your hands to press down and seal the edges of each ravioli, wetting your fingers with a little water to help them stick.

6. Serve with a drizzle of basil sauce otop.

Appetizer. Salsa

"This one is a bright, colourful recipe that is super-versatile. Eat it with (raw) nacho chips or use it to liven up a simple garden salad," write Angus Crawford and Chelsea Clark in their book Rawlicious at Home.

Ingredients

- 5 large tomatoes, diced and strained of excess liquid, skin on
- 1 small red onion, diced
- 1 green onion, diced, except for bottom 1/2 inch
- 1 clove garlic, diced

"Feel free to play around with the vegetables you include — you can essentially customize the recipe with any ingredient you want!"

1. Combine all of the ingredients in a large bowl and mix well.

- 1/2 red bell pepper, diced
- 1/4 cup cilantro, chopped
- 2 tbsp fresh lemon juice
- 1 tsp sea salt
- 1/2 tsp ground cumin
- Pinch cayenne pepper

This recipe yields two and a half cups of salsa. ROHIT SETH

A few tablets for the classes

Tech talk. There's a tablet out there for any stage of student life

For Metro

It's easy to brush off tablets as larger versions of smartphones. The truth is, they can be a huge asset to students, both young and old. Here are some of the best tablets to take into the classroom this fall.

Clockwise from top left, Sony Xperia Z2, Nexus 7, iPad mini and the Samsung Galaxy Tab S.

iPad Air, $519 and up

The perfect choice for students who want style, functionality, and access to some of the best apps. Apple's strict app approval process has created a top-tier marketplace with a focus on quality. Some of the most useful and productive apps such as Pages, Numbers and Keynote are available free of charge. And, let's not forget Apple's FaceTime feature, which allows you to make video calls to family and

iPad Mini with Retina display, $419 and up

The power and elegance of Apple's full-sized iPad, only in a smaller package. The 7.9" screen allows users to hold the Mini comfortably in one hand, without sacrificing display quality. Despite its small size, you can still expect up to 10 hours of use, long enough to last through even the longest lectures.

Samsung Galaxy Tab S, $419 and up

One of the thinnest and lightest tablets on the market. At 294 grams and a mere 6.6mm thick, the Samsung Galaxy Tab S is ideal for those who want productivity without the bulk. Busy students can take advantage of the multitasking feature, which allows you to check your email and surf the web at the same time.

The razor sharp screen also makes it perfect for watching TV or movies ... once homework is complete, of course.

Surface Pro 3, $849 and up

Although Microsoft's latest tablet doesn't have nearly the same number of apps as its competitors, it makes up for it in other areas. Surface Pro 3 can be used as a high-end tablet, or you can purchase the keyboard accessory (sold separately) and use it as a laptop with a full version of Windows 8.1. Run thousands of programs designed for Windows and connect your favourite peripherals with the built-in USB port. The included Surface Pen lets you mark up presentations or draw right on the screen.

Sony Xperia Z2, $529.99 and up

This Android slate boasts one of the fastest processors found in any tablet. Not only does it have processing power to spare, it also has a feature rarely seen in tablets: it's waterproof. Throw it into a backpack with a lunch bag or water bottle without the fear of spills or leaks. In fact, if it gets dirty you can throw it in the sink and wash it off. The Z2 tablet is also dust and scratch resistant, adding to its overall durability.

Nexus 7, $249 and up

This budget-friendly tablet may be cheaper than others on the market, but don't let that fool you. Google's Nexus 7 tablet offers plenty of apps through Google's Play store, plus plenty of other features including long battery life and wireless charging. Younger students can also share the tablet with siblings at home with separate customizable profiles, keeping home screens, apps and storage separate for each user.

Going back to school doesn't have to be all doom and gloom. Make the student in your life excited about heading back to campus or the classroom with one of these tech gadgets.

Apple TV, $109

Connect Apple TV to your television, log into your iTunes account, and enjoy movies TV shows, music, Netflix and more. The menus are a breeze to navigate and AirPlay, iPad and iPhone owners are able to stream content right to their TV. The small size of this device makes it perfect for student dorms or bedrooms.

Garmin Vivofit, $149.99

Student life can be stressful, that's why it's important to pay attention to your health. The Vivofit tracks steps, calories and sleep, but this monitor really sets itself apart from the competition with a few features. The device works in conjunction with Garmin's wireless heart rate chest strap, monitors for extremely accurate stats, and the battery lasts an entire year. Works with most Android, Windows and iOS smartphones.

Dyson DC72 Animal, $599

Dorms don't have to be filthy and messy. Weighing less than five pounds, the latest Dyson cordless vacuum is a powerhouse. With 75 per cent more power than last year's model, the DC72 is designed to suck up dust and ground in dirt from every floor, yet it takes up a fraction of the space as traditional vacuums.

Blacksumac Piper, $216

Never wonder who was rummaging through your dorm room again. This handy security system works in conjunction with your iPhone or Android device. Once movement is detected, Piper lets out an ear-piercing 105-decibel siren.

Plus, it calls, texts and emails you and your circle of friends to notify of the intrusion, while recording it all for later viewing.

Students also have access to the built-in HD camera for a live view of their room.

Versifi LED smart bulb, $69.99

Personalize your dorm room. Once this bulb is installed, you can control the light with your iPhone or Pad. Change the colour, dim the light, or set it to wake you up in the morning. Other fun features include party mode, which transforms any dorm room into a nightclub.

Anker 2nd Gen Astro Charger, $35.99

This small external battery ensures your smartphone never runs out of juice. While many external batteries limit the recharge rate, Anker identifies the device you plug into so it charges at the correct speed. To see how much power remains just shake it. There is enough juice stored inside to recharge your iPhone twice, or a Samsung Galaxy S5 three times. Works with any USB device.

Stellarton's Blayre Turnbull to help lead Canadian hockey contingent

Blayre Turnbull of Stellarton will help lead Canada's National Women's Development in a three-game hockey series against the United States, as one of three rotating alternate captains.

Hockey Canada announced Wednesday leadership teams for its women's development team, as well as for Canada's National Women's Under-18 Team, which will also play three games against its American counterparts later this week in Calgary.

The 21-year-old forward joins fellow alternates Sarah Lefort of Ormstown, Que., and Halli Krzyzaniak of Neepawa, Man., as well as captain Erin Ambrose of Keswick, Ont.

Goaltender Carly Jackson, 17, of Amherst made the cut for the under-18 women earlier this week. The exhibition series for both teams take place Thursday through Sunday at Hockey Canada's home arena, the Markin MacPhail Centre. METRO

Maloney completed his bachelor of science at Dal, while playing varsity basketball and soccer, and was named a 1998 CIS Academic All-Star. He also earned a masters of business administration from the University of Alberta in Edmonton.

He then coached the men's basketball team at the University of Alberta, before becoming the manager of corporate partnerships and marketing properties at Canada Basketball. METRO

Leafs fully embracing the world of analytics

Growing numbers game. Toronto team has reportedly formed a new analytics department

The Toronto Maple Leafs' presence in the field of hockey analytics has come a long way the past two years.

Back then, former GM Brian Burke charmed the high-profile MIT Sloan Sports Analytics Conference in Boston with his anti-sabermetrics wit.

While there is no official announcement from the team, the Leafs have reportedly formed a new analytics department, fronted by three 20-something experts at the cutting edge of the rapidly growing numbers game in hockey.

Those three — Darryl Metcalf, Rob Pettapiece and Cam Charron — further bolster the Leafs' presence in the stats field, which was formally trumpeted when president Brendan Shanahan hired Kyle Dubas as his new assistant GM last month and appointed former NHL head office colleague Brandon Pridham as another new assistant GM, in charge of cap and contract numbers.

Hockey is no longer sitting idle while the other major sports embrace analytics.

Burke's speeches at the Sloan conference were always a must-attend affair, and one of his best lines at the conference was: "Statistics are like a lamp post to a drunk ... useful for support but not for illumination."

The Leafs, however, quietly appeared to change their attitude on analytics when former assistant GM Claude Loiselle attended the Sloan conference the past two years. Now, with Shanahan coming to the Leafs after a three-year tenure as the NHL's chief disciplinarian, the Leafs not only have a three-time Stanley Cup champion and Hall-of-Famer, they have an executive with experience in the heart of the league's head offices, where the sport first greeted analytics more than 20 years ago.

With Dubas leading the way, the Leafs now arguably lead the NHL, along with the Chicago Blackhawks, in advancing analytics into a fully integrated part of their hockey operations.

For most hockey fans, it's likely Metcalf is the most familiar of the three new hires. He created the popular analytics site ExtraSkater.com, basically taking data available on the NHL's website to new levels, all while making it very user-friendly to the average fan.

Pettapiece worked alongside Dubas as a stats guru when both were with the OHL's Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds.

Charron, a former data journalist, was busy stinging Leafs management the past few seasons with critical articles on various websites.

Moose acquire Bent; Ehlers at camp

The Halifax Mooseheads announced Wednesday they've claimed 19-year-old forward Kelly Bent off waivers from the Saint John Sea Dogs.

The Halifax native notched four goals, two assists and 120 penalty minutes in 56 games with Saint John last season.

Jays breathe a short sigh of relief, at last

Homebound. Road trip from hell ends on a good-note win over Brewers in Milwaukee

The Toronto Blue Jays are heading home with a sense of relief.

Outslugging one of the best teams in the National League can ease the sting of a 2-6 road trip.

Jose Bautista's three-run homer capped a five-run sixth inning, and Toronto snapped the Milwaukee Brewers' five-game winning streak with a 9-5 victory Wednesday.

It's time to start chipping away again in the AL East after falling a season-high nine games out of first entering the day.

"This has not been a good road trip for us; anybody will tell you that," starter R.A. Dickey said. "The home run by Jose was the difference and you could kind of hear a collective sigh on the bench."

Bautista hit a 1-2 pitch from reliever Brandon Kintzler into the Brewers' bullpen in right field, scattering pitchers from their seats. The two-out homer made a winner of Dickey (10-12), who gave up five runs in 5-2/3 choppy innings.

"In reality, that's baseball. You go through these stretches," said manager John Gibbons. "It doesn't take much just to miss a ball."

Dickey left after Carlos Gomez's two-run homer in the bottom of the sixth made it 7-5. The bullpen held on from there, and Toronto got some extra cushion after Colby Rasmus hit a two-run homer, his 16th of the year, in the ninth.

The Blue Jays out hit the NL Central leaders 15-10.

Brewers manager Ron Roenicke pointed back to the sixth as a turning point.

"So, tough inning, you know we come back, and Gomey gets the two points and we get a little closer, and we give up another homer. So we just didn't pitch that well today," he said.

CFL. Cohon stepping down as commissioner

One of the CFL's longest-serving commissioners is leaving the post.

Mark Cohon will not return for a third term when his current contract expires in April 2015. Now in his eighth season as CFL commissioner, only Jake Gaudaur (1968-1984) and Sydney Halter (1958-1966) have held the position as long.

Cohon, 48, says he made the announcement now to give the CFL's board of governors time to recruit his replacement.

A lucrative television deal, the return of Ottawa to the CFL, labour peace until 2018, a more stringent drug-testing policy and new stadium projects in Saskatchewan, Winnipeg, Hamilton and Ottawa will be among Cohon's legacies.

"Those were all things that were major projects to move this league along," Cohon told reporters Wednesday on a conference call.

"The thing I can be proud of is we built this great foundation for the next individual to build upon and for the board of governors to build upon."

Expansion into Atlantic Canada is among the unfinished business for Cohon.

Horoscopes by Sally Brompton

♈ Aries

March 21 - April 20

The Sun's imminent move into the wellbeing area of your chart suggests you may feel sluggish over the next few days. It's your body's way of telling you to slow down for a while.

♉ Taurus

April 21 - May 21

Over the past few weeks, cosmic activity in a sensitive area of your chart has made it hard to be positive. That will change on Saturday.

♊ Gemini

May 22 - June 21

Duties will take up a large slice of your time today, time you would no doubt prefer to spend socializing. Do what has to be done and do it well.

♋ Cancer

June 22 - July 23

The Sun's change of signs on the weekend will get your mind moving faster and expand your vision as well. You will begin to see good things you missed over the past few weeks.

♌ Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

The Sun leaves your birth sign on Saturday, which means you need to get serious about issues that up until now you have treated as a joke.

♍ Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

A new solar year begins for you in 48 hours time and if you want to get it off to a flying start you must clear as much junk out of your life as is humanly possible.

♎ Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

The planets warn you need to accept that you won't be able to do everything, no matter how carefully you manage your time. Get help or scale back on your ambitions — or do both.

♏ Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

A loved one may behave irrationally but take it in stride. Sometimes people do things that don't make any sense. You've done it a few times too.

♐ Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

On the weekend, the Sun moves into the career area of your chart and already you are thinking of ways to impress important people. Don't be so ambitious that they worry you might be after their job.

♑ Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

There are things that need to be said and Pluto in your sign, linked to communications planet Mercury, will help you find just the right words. Only concern yourself with the truth.

♒ Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

If you have to sign something today make sure you check the small print, because there could be some nasty surprises if you don't take care.
